The screenshot shows a Confluence page titled "Meeting minutes" created by Lilly Grey. The page content includes a status check "Let's review how we're tracking against goals", a "SUMMARY OF DISCUSSION" section with traffic updates, and a "NEXT STEPS" section with three tasks assigned to Frank Dreamer, Fred Gilbert, and Lilly Grey. This screenshot shows the same "Meeting minutes" page after a talk has been added. A red circle highlights the Talk icon (a megaphone with the number 2) that appears at the end of the text "by end of the quarter". On the right side of the page, a "Talks" sidebar is visible, showing a list of discussions. The first talk is by Jack Stone, dated Apr 14, 2022 17:22, with the comment "I suppose it's too optimistic." The second talk is by Fred Gilbert, dated Apr 14, 2022 17:26, with the comment "We need to do our best this month." The page content and navigation bar remain the same as in the previous screenshot.

If there's no figure, it means that currently there are no Talk discussions on this page.

The screenshot shows the top navigation bar of Confluence with 'Spaces', 'People', and 'Create' buttons. A search bar is on the right. Below the navigation bar, the page title 'Marketing campaign' is displayed, along with its creator 'Jack Stone' and a modification date. An annotation with an orange arrow points to the 'Talk' icon, which shows a speech bubble with the number '4' inside, indicating four comments. The annotation text reads: 'The number of talks on this page'.

4. When you want to reply to the talk, select it. The talk is highlighted in yellow. Enter your reply into the text field and click Reply to post it. The Talk icon that you selected also becomes highlighted, so you can easily track which element the talk is mapped to.
